

I believe that the Government should leave New Jersey's "Do Not Call" program alone. After working all day, it is nice to now come home to a phone that is not ringing every half hour or so with a telemarketer trying to sell me something. We are inundated enough with telemarketing through regular mail. I don't believe that we should now, once again, be invaded in our homes by these companies as well. As we have the right to privacy, I strongly believe that we should have that right in our own homes and not feel invaded by continual, unwanted phone calls.
